For example, endotoxin (i.e., lipopolysaccharide or LPS) and its derivatives induce the expression of certain inflammatory genes in monocytes and other cell types \*in vitro\* and \*in vivo\* and inhibit the secretion of IL-10 and the production of suppressive cytokines, such as IL-4, TGF- $\beta$ , and IL-10, which modulate Th1 responses (@B50)]. In addition, LPS can be used to augment the immunotherapeutic efficacy of GM-CSF by enhancing its retention in the lymph nodes in mice (@B51)]. LPS (a toxic derivative of \*E. coli\*) can also be used to activate mouse macrophages to secrete proinflammatory cytokines (@B52)]. However, LPS has shown some clinical benefits; for example, it can prevent the transmission of many infections and can inhibit the progression of sepsis (@B53)]. Therefore, it is of interest to determine whether PAMPS can be used as delivery systems for biologics. A major issue to be considered is the short half-life and the immunogenicity of PAMPS. As mentioned above, adjuvants are available for the activation of monocytes
